George of Greece Falls From

Franco-Russian Treaty of Alliance Signed.

G. A. B. Encampment. DETROIT, Aug. 6.-To-day closes the session of the G. A. R. refast leaving the city. No less than eight national organizations are in seson or have adjourned, and the encampment in its many innovations has certainly been the greatest success of any of the preceding ones.

A sensation was created by the address of the President of the National Association of the Union Prisoners of War, E. H. Williams of Indiana. Referring to the treatment accorded to ex-prisoners, the President says: "As an organization, and in view of the great and peculiar hardships and suffering endured as prisoners, we believe a special compensation is due us. For a number of years bills have been presented in Congress, looking to such measures as we felt due to us, but so far all appeals have availed us nothing. The order is a purely charitable and social institution and was called into existence for the purpose of taking into the benevolent work of the patriotic association all the memoers of soldiers' families. Its total membership is between 15,000 and 20,000, and the President states that 260 new circulars were chartered in the past year.

asked for an appropriation therefor. Immediately after the meeting of the encampment this morning the election of Commander-in-Chief was declared the first business. There were four candidates: John Palmer of New York, A. J. Wiessart of Milwankee, W. P. Smedburg of California and S. H. Hurst of Ohio. Ben-jamin Bryant, of Wisconsin, placed Wiessart in nomination in an eloquent speech. Wiessart's nomination was seconded by Illinois, Iowa, Indiana and Kentucky. The election was by secret ballot. The announcement of the first ballot, with Palmer far in the lead, indicated to a certainty his ultimate election. Great enthusiasm was manifested by the New York delegates during the secret ballot.

At the conclusion, when was still in doubt, the California delegation changed its entire vote to Palmer. Prolonged cheering greeted this announcement, which meant Smedburg's withdrawal and Palmer's elec-

An enthusiastic delegate at this juncture moved Palmer's election be declared unanimous, and it was carried amid wild enthusiasm.

Captain John Palmer, the new Commander-in-Chief, was born on Staten Island, March 22, 1842 and has a spendid war record. He served during the war in the 91st New York volunteers, taking part in all its engagements. Since the war he has been engaged in fresco painting and the decoration business. At Albany, as a member of the G. A. R., he for several terms was commander of Benedict Post No. 5; was elected com mander of the New York Department, and in 1879 was elected Senior Vice Commander-in-Chief, all of which important positions he filled with credit. He is said to be a forcible speaker and a model presiding officer.

A sensation occurred by the announcement of the report of the special committee on the race question recommending the creation of a separate department for colored veterans This is likely to cause a lively time when it is brought up.

The abolition of National Banks as banks of issue, and as a substitute for the National Bank notes, demand that full legal tender treasury notes be issued in sufficient number to conduct the business of the country on a cash basis; the payment of all bonds of the government instead of refunding them in such money as they were originally made payable in; government control of all transportation and communication. Liberal pensions to Union soldiers are favored. A woman's suffrage plank is included in the platform. The platform favors government loans directly to individuals; favors the free coinage of silver; opposed to the alien ownership of lands, and demands that Congress devise means to obtain all the land already owned by foreign syndicates; also demands all lands held by railroads and other corporations in excess of what is actually needed, be reclaimed by the government and held for actual settlers only; demands a graduated income tax; demands the enactment and the right of enforcement of laws for the suppression of all forms of gambling in the future, and a strict enforcement of the laws against the adulteration of food products. The election of United States Senators by a popular vote of the people is favored. The platform also demands the forfeiture by the Standard Oil Company of its charter. A resolution was adopted favoring Government or State control of the sale, manufacture, imliquors, as a recommendation to the National Convention as a solution of the liquor problem.

A number of nominations for candidates for Governor were made and a recess taken until 1 o'clock. John Seitz was nominated Governo

SYRACUSE (N. Y.), August 6.-A collision between passenger and freight trains occurred near Port ing, Byron on the West Shore Railroad at lula-7 o'clock this morning. Eleven persons have been taken out dead and number are reported wounded.

This morning a freight train on the West Shore Railroad, going west, broke in two between Port Byron and Montezuma, and a fast train following crashed into the rear. A brakeman went back toward the passenger train, but the night was so foggy he was not

The fireman of the passenger train was killed. Ten Italians, en route to Niagara Falls in the smoking car, were killed and several others in the same car injured. Some of them will probably die. The sleeping cars were burned, but it is supposed that nearly all the passengers were rescued. It is thought nobody in them was badly hurt. The injured were brought here and are being cared for. The bodies of the killed are at Port Byron, where the coroner will hold an inquest. by the election of Hugh Cavanaugh Among the injured was a member of an opera company, who died on the way here. Trainmen say more are killed in the wreck. Physicians and others were sent from Syracuse, Aub-National, State or municipal, shall not urn, Montezuma and Port Byron.

> The following is a list of the killed: Michael Bergen, fireman on the passenger train, Alphonso Carilla, Coco Rocco, John Rosio, Veanzo Dilauri, Dominico Ricbone, Antonio Scazzaffava, all Italians, and John Grambott and an unknown Italian who died on the way to Syracuse.

> The number injured is eleven. Of the eleven Italians injured four will probably die. They were in the smoking car of the St. Louis express, which crashed into the freight train. Twelve cars of the freight train were wrecked and piled up on the track, completely blockading the road. Hardly a whole piece of timber is left in the smoking car. The wreck took fire and all the passenger train was burned with the exception of three sleeping cars. The train was made up of two express cars, a baggage and express car, one day coach and four eping cars.

> Mr. Sullivan of this city was on the train. He was in the car behind the smoker. Regarding the accident, he says: "The freight train with which our train collided was running on passenger train time. When the crash came the scene was a terrible one. The smoking car was smashed to splinters, and the shrieks of the wounded and imprisoned in the wreckage was heartrending. The accident occurred at 3 o'clock. When I left the dead and wounded were scattered about on the ground inside the tracks, and the surviving passengers were could be seen, were all men who were in the smoking car. None of the passengers in the sleeping cars were injured."

> John F. Bowdish of Boston, who had a narrow escape, gave a similar account of the accident. He said no one in the sleeping cars were injured. The attendants of the express and baggage cars had retired to the rear coaches to catch a little sleep, and the entire fatality was therefore confined to the occupants of the smoking car and locomotive.

This afternoon Joseph Koshan of St. Louis and Antonio Umbello, an Italian, died at the hospital in this city. These deaths make the number of fatalities twelve. Of the injured some others will probably die.

New York, August 6.—A West Shore official says: "From what can be learned, there is no doubt the accident this morning resulted from the neglect of the conductor of the freight train to send back a flagman to warn trains moving on the same track."

Stand By Protection.

The American Economist says: No surprise seems justified by the fact that the McKinley Tariff does not suit the men who have assumed the task of "Tanff reform" in accordance with the British standard. Farmers of the existing law found inspiration fifty. Then he stood there as quietly as if laid a Tariff along those lines indicated by the founders of our Republic and the law makers of its first Congress. Of course this could not be done without exciting opposition from Free Trade attorneys, as such opposition is the only excuse for their existence.

But the real facts of the situation, at any time since the passage of the new Tariff law, have in no wise warranted their bitter opposition to its enactment or their determined efforts for its repeal Immediately following its passage, and before some of its most important provisions were in force, its influence for good was manifested in the renewed assurance given to capital that the great body of American voters might still be relied on to maintain the traditional defense against foreign competition made necessary by the advanced standard of wages and living in this country. In many localities factories long idle or materially restricted in output by enforcing division of the domestic markets with foreign competitors, were given new life, skilled operatives found opportunity for steadier employment at wages enabling them to live as becomes American citizens, without any material advance in the cost of manufactured products as they reach the hands of ultimate consumers.

Never in the history of this country could more than the necessaries and luxuries of life be obtained by honest effort than since the Mc-Kinley bill became law, despite the early prophecies of its opponants that the reverse of this would tollow its passage, and their subsequent efforts to insure confirmation of their dolesome predictions.

In the face of this array of facts of a continuance of their 'crusade against the policy by which all of this has been brought about. By arguments are being patched into shape, oft-refuted prophecies are being placed in the mouths of spokesmen, and the hobgoblin of high prices is marched to the front to scare voters into support of free to scare voters into support of free foreign trade. In short, history is to repeat its record of past efforts to repeat its record of past efforts to repeat its record of past efforts to substitute British political econour country has made its phenomenal advancement. Let patriotic voters see to it that the same page shows that history shall further repeat itself by recording the overwhelming defeat of this renewed attempt at checking the prosperity of the world's greatest Republic.

It has been proved to the world that we can build our ownswar vessels, and the bids recently received by the War Department for the construction of one hundred big guns indicate that the great steel companies of the country have finally solved the problem of building heavy ordnauce. With improved armor, and twelve inch steel guns, Uncle Sam's defensive powers will shortly be all that the most timorous resident of our unprotected seaports could desire.—Virginia Chronicle.

If the Democrats succeed in carrying out their free trade ideas, England will continue to be the workshop of America, and ship building will necessarily have to be transferred to that country.

KENTUCKY has again gone Democratic. The South still hangs to the "lost cause" with tenscity. A "Solid South" will again be presented to the North in the next Presidential campaign. The Farmers Alliance or anything else will not change a single vote.

Nervy Man Acted in a Theate

"I was in Rochester the other eving," said a traveling man to a (N. Y.) Observer reporter, "and attended one of the theaters. Between the acts some fool in the gallery yelled fight and another fool in the dress-circle at once yelled 'fire.' There was an instant panic, and had it not been for a dozen cool-headed men and the fact that the orchestra kept right along playing there would have been a terrible scene. As it was several ladies fainted and men and women rushed over the back of seats to the door as though they were

"But there was one incident that I shall never forget as long as I live. A tell centleman about fifty years of age sterred upon his sent and drew a re-veller from his pocket. In a voice that id be heard for some distance around bim he said:

"There is no fire, and I shall be empted to shoot the first man that tries to rush out of here and possibly trample upon women and children. I mean just what I say, and when the excitement cools down if anybody will point out the miscreant that raised the cry of fire I will give the gentleman fifty dollars for his trouble, and agree to whip the secondrel who raised the false alarm within five minutes or forfeit another nothing had disturbed him, and the people who heard him knew by his looks that he meant business, and would do just what he said. 'Good for you!' called a half-dozen voices, and the people in that section sat very quietly dur-ing the several minutes of terrible exeitement that prevailed all over the crowded house. When order had been restored the gentleman resumed his seat and enjoyed the play."

AT WOUNDED KNEE.

The Splendid Courage Displayed by Some of the Soldiers. The Indians fought desperately until they were annihilated, but bravery was no more conspicuous than that which was unostentatiously displayed by some of the soldiers. Perhaps the most remarkable case, says the Washington Star, was that of Prite Kelly, who was shot near the heart. He knew the mortal nature of his wound, and as he rolled over said to Private Girbach: "I'm gone, sure; roll me around and make a breastwork of me." That was courage.

Private McKenzie, of Troop B, was hit hard in the left shoulder. One of the surgeons saw he was wounded and sent a litter bearer to bring him in. But McKenzie would not go. He insisted on shooting away at the stubborn foe. "I know I'm getting weak," said he, "but I've got to have a couple of shots yet." He did fire once or twice more, then he fainted from loss of blood and was taken to the rear.

Sergt. Tritle, of E troop, has what some folks call "grit." His first wound was in his left hand, and a minute or two later he got another bad one in the hip. That would have satisfied the average warrior, but the sergeant was not inclined to retire. Just then Sergt. Nettles was killed almost at Tritle's side. Tritle saw the Indian who fired the fatal shot, and although his own left hand was shattered and blood was pouring steadily from his hip he said: "I'll get that Indian." He did, and an instant later a hostile bullet penetrated his left breast. "I guess I'll get these wounds dressed now," was his faint re-mark as he crawled for the rear.

GOVERNMENTAL RAIN-MAKING.

Electricity to Be Employed for the Pur-The government is actually going trying to do so, says the Indianapolis News. Congress has appropriated a sum of money which will be expended in attempts to secure rain where it is way of preliminaries, threadbare be sent up into the air, connected with in midair and all that is necessary is to omy for the policy of Protection ducing a concussion among the clouds, for home industry under which this can be effected. If these experiments should prove successful the next step will be to steer the clouds around in some other section of the country when one locality is getting more rain than it wants. There is nothing in earth, sea or sky that scientific experiment hesitates to "tackle," and it is a satisfaction, although rather a mourn-ful one, to think that our children will know and see things that are un-dreamed of in our philosophy.

An Assertment of Races.

A short time ago an anthropologist of New York city got a group of men of many races in his house for a purpose. In the group there were a North American Indian, a Chinaman, a negro, a Hawaiian, a Hebrew, an Arab, an East Indian and Europeans of the Gothic, Celtic, Slavic and Latin races. All of them were found in the city of New York, and all were able to use the them were found in the city of New York, and all were able to use the English language well or otherwise. The anthropologist who brought them together desired to get their notions upon certain questions of race, linguistics and religion, but he had great difficulty in getting them. He proposes to hold other conferences of the same kind, and to prosecute his investigations until his object has been attained. "All races of men are of one

A man that lives in Reynoldsville. A man that lives in Reynoldsville, Ga., has been for sixteen or seventeen years afflicted with a terrible cough and what was believed to be catarrh. While bathing his face the other morning he blew out of his left nostril a piece of knife blade about an inch long. It looked like a piece of bone. When the outer covering was removed, however, it proved to be a piece of a steel knife blade. When but a boy of ten years a negro boy stabbed him in the left cheek in a boyish scrimmage. He did not know that a portion of the blade was left in his cheek. MISCELLANEOUS.

OVERLAND DRIVES.

Characteristics and Peculiarities of Celebrated Whips, on the Pi-oncer Stages. The old pioneer stage drivers were nearly all possessed of some marked characteristic that distinguished esch from the other, so that they could alsame reason, listen attentively to a stale joke that was dinned in their ears every day by smart Alecks traveling at other people's expense; while some were full of Joe Miller jokes, which they would repeat daily "just to see some sucker bite." All had pride in their calling, petted their "stock" and would beat the opposition, even though they had to "pound 'em on the back" to make time. Among the crack whips, stock always in hand and whip ready mares were a repetition of his run, and when asleep his dreams were always of the dangerous places on the the down grades. At such times he would pull himself up by the blankets and press the foot board off the bed, muttering "Whoa, there! whoa!" believing all the time he was bearing down on the brake. He was a terror to the landlords, who finally adopted the plan of building bedsteads that he couldn't kick down.

From a letter written by Mrs. Ada E. Hurd even when wakened out of his sleep. On one occasion when his drive ended on the new road from Eureks to Palisade, at midnight, at a station consisting only of a corral, when the stock was cared for, Reilley laid down and was soon sleeping. Waking at the bostler's movements, Reilley yawned and said "Tim, for God's sake put up the bars or we'll both take cold." His favorite expression of approval or condemnation was "He's a lizard," and his meaning of its application was the manner in which he said it and squinted his eyes. His eyes were weak and always half closed.

He afterward utilized his knowledge during the early rush to California by establishing a trading post there, and going out upon the Humboldt, piloted going out upon the Humboldt, piloted many of the emigrants over the road. He lived there a number of years, and until old age warned him of the near approach of Father Time with his sickle, when he returned to his old home in Missouri and there died.

In February of this year General C. W. Irish took barometric readings and determined the height of the pacs to be 5,186 feet above sea level. It is situated about 24 miles in a northwest direction from Reno, in Sierra county,

An hour afterwards the stage got across and Dave — well he had found the bottle. We dropped it under the wheel to save his neck, and when we reached the end of his drive at Jordan creek, he was sober as a deacon, and merely said "Take care of yourself Billy till I see you again." Poor Dave, he was found dead and boiled to pieces, a year or so afterward in a hot spring at Keosin's station, midway between Austin and Battle Mountain.

In winter he wore a long blanket overcoat and pants, with the wide stripes arranged for cuffs and collars and high water marks. The buttons were big silver dollars, and across his bright red vest was a silver watch chain with links like a trace chain, which went clear around his neck and weighed four pounds. It was further weighted down with silver horses. The watch was a monster one and had cases so thick that he could run his coach over them without endangering the works. Of course he wore a white beaver hat of the finest make—all the drivers did that in those days—and as a further mark of oddity, he wore very high-heeled boots with soles an inch and a half thick. When he would arrive at Austin with his fast freight wagon from Virginia City he attracted as much attention as the camel train that was then used in freighting. And he his special directions. THE SILVER FAD.

Health is Wealth! It Now Controls the Young Gir of the Period.

the Precious Metal Is Put to Grat-lfy the Devotees of Fashion. -The Spoon Crase.

A long time ago a man named Solo mon, who acquired quite a reputation for wisdom, made the remark that: tending thereby to convey some idea of the superiority of silence. A Solomon of the year 1891, says the Chicago Tribnne, however, would reverse the metals if he would be in the fashion, for this is preeminently a silver era.

The latest fad, for instance, of the girl whose pin-money income is large enough to support this rather expen sive indulgence is the collection of silver-mounted toilet articles, of which there is an endless variety. There are all sorts and conditions of brushes, from the generous sized clothesbrush to the diminutive instrument for arranging the eyebrows. There are combs heart-shaped silver boxes for manicure salves and powders, silver-cased bot-tles, dental floss, atomizers, ring trays, pin trays, hairpin boxes, and so on through the ever-increasing category.

When milady travels there are silver ases for perfume bottles, silver soap boxes, silver basket covers and umbrella straps w. h silver buckles. When she ssume an air of virtuous industry and takes o few stitches as occasion may deman, there are silver scissors, acornshape I cases for her thimble, dainty receptacles for her needles, and boxes containing a kind of bobbin on which to wind different colored silk floss. When she opens her escritoire to conduct her correspondence in a decidedly English hand, there are silver pen trays, ink bottles, pens and pencils, letter clips, bristle pen wipers and a unique arrangement for moistening stamps. For the sick room there are silver-cased fever thermometers and an odd lemon-ade or medicine spoon with a tube running up the back through which, as through a straw, the fluid may be taken.

When this victim of a fad goes shop ping or calling there is the tiny glove bonbonniere, heart-shaped perhaps, which she slips inside the palm of her hand. She carries an odd coin purse of French design with a tiny watch in the top. Unscrew this little lid, and the neck expands to the full extent of the links below. Her chatelaine tablet of African lizard skin is mounted in silver with a silver chain, and on its cover, as on that of her card case and address book, silver fleurs de lis. All the leather novelties bear these flowers of France, even the lizard skin card case opening at the end, which gentlemen carry in the pockets of their evening clothes

In the realm of jewelry, also, silver and platinum are popular as settings for clusters. Next to the diamond, which might be ealled the "staff" of jewel life, the stone which takes the popular fancy is the emerald, though the turquoise is also in great demand. The hand of tashion is tonded with civilized disregard of carrings. All stones are set low in plain, polished gold, and many are imbedded in the French style right in the gold. There is quite a fancy for setting different colored diamonds together, and gentlemen wear as evening studs three small diamonds or pearls of different colors. A ring containing three diamonds, colored respectively cinnamon, coffee and red, is quite valuable, as the red stone is perhaps impossible of duplication.

The bunches of silver wire bracelets so common a little while ago have given place to immense ropes and links of the same metal, but it is to be hoped that this fancy will not be allowed to handcuff many of the devotees of fash ion. Necklaces are permissible only for evening wear, when they are worn with pendants. The long bar pins have been superseded by clusters in round designs, as stars, flowers, birds, bowknots, etc. Two hearts tied ttogethe with a knot is a pretty design for rings or pendants, the hearts being of tur-quoise surrounded by diamonds, which also form the bow. Elaborate designs of cluster diamonds are in great favor for corsage wear, one beautiful example being a flight of swallows, formed entirely of diamonds. For the hair there are enameled orchids with diamond centers and pins with fleur de lis heads The spoon-gathering craze still holds possession of all tourists and a new

Chicago spoon has been designed to meet the demand of the collector. It is called the Fort Dearborn spoon and has a round bowl with a raised design depicting the old fort and its surround ings. This spoon is of oxidized silver and looks quite antique, but bright silver is more in demand now for regular

The London Lancet has just recorded a remarkable case. The body of an Arab, who was a stowaway on a ship which had just arrived, was found in the hold and was conveyed to the Seamen's hospital at Greenwich, where a post mortem was made. The physicians noticed that the body was greatly maciated, and on opening it there were found in the alimentary canal twenty trouser buttons, three cog wheels, apparently portions of a watch, a two-inch steel screw which was bent double a one inch double, a one-inch screw, six pieces of a lock, the largest half an inch long and half an inch broad, a circular piece of brass, several pieces of iron wire, some bits of brass and lead, and two key tallies on a ring an inch long.

The man had eaten these things when in Asbury park the other day a clar of thunder startled the town by reason of its almost unparalleled loudness. lid not rumble; it sounded like the discharge of a great cannon. One lady saw the source of all that noise, and saw the source of all that noise, and this is how she described it. She was closing a window when there fell through the air a red ball not twice as big as an average-sized Florida orange. It was fiery red. It burst when it was close to the ground, and there flew into the surrounding air a myriad darts and shafts of many-colored flame, precisely, she says, like one sees when a firework bomb goes off. Then came the bang. TURA'S FAIRY WIFE

A Pretty Polynesian Legend-Why Gray Hair Shocked an Immortal. Tura, coming from over seas, found himself in a land named Otea, and leaving his canoe, journeyed inland. Traveling through the dense forest, he saw fairies sitting in the flowers of the climbing plants and swinging on the lianas which trailed from the high boughs across the vistas of the wood. These fairies were curiously-shaped beings, having small heads and large bodies, while their hands and feet were attached to limbs so short that they seemed as if extruding from their

Tura had brought with him the sticks wherewith fire is produced by friction, and he proceeded to kindle a fire and to cook some food, much to the astonishment of the fairies who had always consumed their food in its natural state Tura fell in love with one of the fairy women and married her. His wife reciprocated his affection and they lived appily together; but one day, when the elfin spouse was combing out her husband's hair, she suddenly cried out: "Oh, Tura, what is this white hair among the black ones?"

He told her that it was a sign of age and of approaching decay, the forerun-ner of death. Then his wife wept bitterly and refused to be comforted. It is a touching story, the sudden surprise and grief of this child of the immortals on her discovery of that which to us poor sons of clay is so common and ob trusive a fact.

The old legend has given rise to a proverb saying, "the weeds of Tura," as a synonymous expression for gray hair.—N. Y. Journal.

The Effect of Music. It is curious to note the influence of nusic in a mixed crowd, says the New York Sun. In Central park on Sunday at least as many as ten thousand per-sons were within hearing of the band when it suddenly struck up a Strauss waltz. The crowd was divided, and were moving toward the lake while half were facing the park gates All were so nearly packed together that locomotion was difficult. In two minutes after the music began to make it self felt the people fell to keeping time to it with their steps, and then to swaying their bodies in unison with the musical time. Those who were at one side or the other on the paths saw the strange scene of ten thousand persons swaying to and fro, and could not account for it until they approached near enough to hear the strains of the band.
